A few words about writing an essay in English

Writing an essay is a prerequisite for entering a foreign university, passing an international exam or hiring. To enroll in MBA programs in prestigious foreign business schools, you need to provide not only a letter of recommendation in English, but also an essay in which you will present yourself as the best candidate for study in this program. The quality of the essay will depend not only on your general level of English, but also on your level of writing skills. We have already told you how to improve the skill of writing English in three steps.

In addition, a quality essay involves not only emotionality, interesting content, details that will draw attention to your candidacy, but also the correct design. It is good if you write the essay at home, in a calm atmosphere and not limited in time. For example, you have one or two days to write and edit. But what if the essay is part of the exam? Then you are limited in time, and the emotional mood is not the same: you need to write quickly and competently. In this case, you will be helped by introductory phrases that you can use when writing your work. Such phrases will help not only to structure the whole text, but also to make it logically consistent, coherent, reasoned.
